"Our State Fair."

That is the way the Eureka Republican speaks of it, and we like to hear it. We want every county to feel exactly in that way, that this institution is supported by the State and belongs to the State at large for improvement and progress. Here is what the Republican says:

The fourth annual exhibition of the Nevada State Agricultural, Mining and Mechanical Society closed last Saturday evening with happy results. It was the best exhibition ever given by the society and the attendance from all parts of the State was large. Unusual interest was manifested by those who had anything to exhibit, and the displays are reported to have excelled in quality and number any of the former fairs. The stock show is stated to have been all that could have been desired, comprising all the fine breeds of Nevada and California, the latter State, however, carrying away many of the premiums, rather a mortifying acknowledgment, and one that should not trouble us again, because our stock raising facilities are equal to those of California, if properly attended to. The Fair has done much good in disseminating a knowledge of the products, resources and possibilities of our State, showing that mining, while it is its chief industry, is not the only reliance of its population. The citizens of Reno are highly praised for the successful termination of the Fair, and of course much devoted upon them to make it so. Visitors have come away pleased with the sights prepared for them and satisfied with the hospitality they received.

The above is certainly very gratifying to the managers, and is only a sample of the cordial notices given to this Society by the press. We want these opinions as matter of record, but we want them also to serve as stimulants to further efforts. The Society now has the entire State at its back and must make preparations accordingly. We need two things which can be accomplished before another Fair season. The track should be improved and a pavilion built. The reader will forgive us for harping upon Fair matters, but we don't believe in resting at all. The iron is at a white heat and one more effort will weld the interests of this Society indissolubly to those of the State of Nevada. We believe that Reno men will make that effort.

Deacon Parkinson of the Carson Tribune while constantly deprecating the making of slates never loses a chance to get out his little slate pencil, and compare notes. Living at the center of things, so to speak, the Tribune is of course trusted with State secrets, and thus holds a sort of political barometer for the rest of the State. This barometer consists of the Deacon's tile and tickets whereupon are written names of possible candidates. Each evening at twilight after arduous editorial duties are concluded this pious man draws forth in turn tickets from the hat, and assigns to them hopes and wishes. Then he writes and the world wonders whence came his information. Such is the simple device which keeps us all posted on things to be, and makes the Tribune first among family papers.

The San Francisco Stock Report learns with horror that some San Francisco capital has gone to the Black Hills and fears that the Comstock is to be neglected. We wish that the capital mentioned was all in the Black Hills for this State as a State has never had one dollar for which she did not pay three.

DESERVING OF CREDIT.—General Rooker, who visited the Reno fair, says the citizens of Reno are deserving of credit for the enterprise shown by them in matters pertaining to the exposition. He says the exhibits, accommodations and everything connected with it were far superior to those of the fair at San Jose, which is a much older and more populous place than Reno, besides possessing numerous other advantages in the way of resources and locality.—Reveille.

The Silver State of October 23rd says: C. S. Osborn is arranging to resume operations on the Pacific Sulphur Works, and has gone to work with a force of men on the mine. We are informed that the McWorthy Sulphur mine has been purchased by an English Company, and that an agent of the purchasers is expected this week to take possession of the property.

The Tuscarora Mining Review gives the details of a double tragedy at the Tuscarora wood ranch. Andreas Wille killed one G. T. Redell with an ax, after which Wille died of wounds inflicted by Redell. The cause of the bloody affair is not stated.

Bodie is a decidedly lively mining camp—from twenty-five to fifty arrivals daily and the streets crowded with strangers. Real estate is changing hands, and town lots are in great demand. At the office of a real estate dealer a dozen transfers of town property were made during the last three days.

The Carson Appeal reports an attempt at highway robbery near Genoa on Tuesday evening. J. S. Humill was the unsuspecting traveler and instead of giving up his change fired at Mr. Turpin and put him to flight. Very humiliating to the robber, we should call it.

The quarters of the labor saving John are under martial law in Carson. Cause why? One Ah Fat was suddenly removed from this world of sin and the authorities fear that more funerals will ensue. At present all is well.

Nassau Darkeys Diving for Pennies.

There is a nice little public square which lies on the water side of Bay street and fronts the public buildings, where are the court-houses, house of assembly, bank, and other similar places of resort. Whenever we go—on a pleasant morning, afternoon or evening—to this square, to sit by the stone boat-stairs, or to stand on the sea-wall and view the lovely water with its changing hues of green, its yachts, its ships, and all its busy smaller craft, and sniff with delight the cool salt breeze that blows so gaily over the narrow back of Hog Island, there would certainly come running to us two, three, or a dozen little black boys, with the entreaty: "Please, boss, give us a small dive." If I happen to have any change, and wished to see some funny work in the water, I put my hand in my pocket, and instantly every little black boy jerked off his shirt. It is no trouble for the negro children to dress in Nassau. The very little ones wear only a small shirt and a straw hat. Sometimes there is not much muslin in this shirt, but they are always particular to have it come down low enough to cover the breastbone. If I find a penny I toss it into the water, and instantly every darkey boy, clad in nothing but his scanty trousers, plunges in after it. Sometimes a spry little fellow catches the coin before it reaches the bottom, and it is never long before some fellow comes up with the coin in his mouth. Sometimes when a coin is not readily found, it is curious to look down through the clear water and see the young rascals moving their legs and arms about down at the bottom like a lot of enormous brown frogs.—Scribner for November.

Minister Pierrepont and Earl Derby have signed a treaty regarding trade marks and trade labels. The treaty comes to America to-day.

Association of Dairy Industries.

It has been found by experience that much greater economy and efficiency can be attained in the manufacture of butter and cheese where the milk of a large number of cows is handled and manipulated by one management, than where the milk of a few cows is handled and made up into butter or cheese separately. There is but little difference in the expense of running a dairy of twenty-five cows or one of one hundred cows. One good butter or cheese maker can take care of and make up the milk of one hundred cows, while it will take about all the time of the same person to care for and make up the milk from one-fourth of that number of cows. The expense of taking to market and marketing the products of a hundred cows will be but little if any more than the expense attending the same business for twenty-five cows.

The tools, such as cheese vats, heating apparatus, cheese presses, etc., used in the manufacture of cheese, and such as churns, butter workers, etc., used in the manufacture of butter, cost much less in proportion for a hundred cows than for one-fourth that number. In fact, every item of expense is reduced proportionately in a large dairy compared to what it is in a small dairy, whether the business of the dairy be to make butter or cheese. But the stronger argument in favor of association in the dairy business has been found in the improved quality of the products. Where the milk of one hundred or more cows is handled together, either in making butter or cheese, better system and greater exactness and uniformity is universally attained, than where the milk of a few cows is handled by the same person, or by persons of equal skill and ability. The result is a better article, and more of it from the same quantity of milk.

These statements have been verified by actual experience, wherever cheese and butter have been made in the United States and every other country. The introduction of the factory system in making cheese in the State of New York not only greatly increased the amount of cheese per cow, but in a very few years it so improved the quality of the cheese that the factory-made commanded twenty-five per cent. greater prices than that made by farmers generally on their farms in the same vicinity. The principal reason why New York-made butter, for the past twenty years, brought from five to ten cents more per pound in the city of New York than did that made in the Western States, is attributable more to the fact that the New Yorkers made dairying a specialty, while in the West butter making was only a sort of adjunct to the other operations of the farm. Since the association of those making butter in the Western States, in the form of creameries, in which all the milk of several farms is brought together and made up in one establishment, and under one management, Western butter brings as good prices in New York City and elsewhere as that made in the best sections of New York State. The butter made in the western creameries commands ten cents a pound more in all butter markets than that does made on the farms in the same neighborhood. A similar state of facts is being developed in California. The large dairies, where the milk from one hundred to one thousand cows is made into either cheese or butter, report a greater product per cow by from ten to twenty per cent. than do the farmers generally who milk but few cows. The products of these large dairies, where properly managed, also command much better prices, often from twenty to twenty-five per cent. more per pound than similar products made on the general farms.

These facts show very plainly and conclusively that it would be very greatly to the interests of farmers generally, who keep a few cows, to associate themselves together and put the milk of their cows under due management and manufacture either into butter or cheese.

The organization may be very simple, and may be incorporated or not; just as those associating may desire. A central and otherwise advantageous locality may be selected in each neighborhood, proper buildings erected or old buildings appropriated and the business of the creamery or cheese factory inaugurated at very little expense; the milk brought in by each farmer, each day weighed, and a proportion of the products corresponding returned to him; or the corresponding proportion of the sour milk or whey may be returned, and the butter may be sold and the proceeds proportionately divided. The advantage of association in the dairy business are so patent and so plain to be seen that the wonder is that they have not generally been taken advantage of in California before this.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

What Everybody Says.

That the Fourth Annual Fair was a success.
That the cutting of Warren's buggy was an outrage.
That Warren knows that no exhibit was guilty of the act.
That Washoe county is improving both her lands and herds and promises to grow rich in consequence.
That the Society needs a palilion and must have one.
That enough new life members can be found to pay for it.
That the Board of Trustees, with Messrs. Bragg and Chamberlain, deserve the hearty thanks of this community.
That the "Blacksmith's dream" is a good 'un.
That Carson is 90 degrees in the shade.

HOUSE CLEANING.—The season of house cleaning, putting up stoves and general preparation for winter has begun. Now we shall see the dear hubby looking cross, and complaining of a short allowance of "cold stuff" at noon. He will occasionally walk down street with a soot mark on his nose or cheek. He will talk as he feels to the stove dealer about that cussed stovepipe not fitting. He rebels when it comes to beating and putting down the carpet, and wants his Jessica Ann to get a Chinaman. The screens are to be taken from the windows and doors, dusted and put away, wood to be procured, cut and put in the wood house, but just here a ray of light flits across his mind, and with half appealing kindness he says: "My dear, we can't get any wood now from the West for the C. P. have shut down on the business." But his wife true to her womanly instinct and quick as they are to the rescue of a playing cause, promptly replies, "Well John we'll beat this carpet to-day, put it down and put up the stove, but I expect you'll have to eat a cold lunch, and then as she walks off to her work leaving John feeling worse than if a sudden calamity had befallen him and he was in doubt as to whether or not the shock might prove too much for his constitution, certainly was like a nightmare to his feelings, she says. "John I think the order of the railroad company will be reversed to-morrow and regular shippers may send wood and lumber as heretofore."

CONDY.—Condy who was so seriously injured last Friday at Pyramid Lake, is doing as well as could be expected. He is now at the hospital. His left hand was blown off by the Vulcan powder. His right hand was not very much injured by the blast. He was engaged at the time of the accident in blasting away some rocks where otters or beavers had gone into a hole. The unfortunate man had lighted the fuse to the blast and was brushing some small pieces of rock from the place where he intended to set off the blast, when he fell down on the rocks, at the same time holding the charge in his hand. The result we have mentioned.

WE anticipate a rousing house for the McGibeny family to-night. They deserve it, and our people appreciate true merit.

THAT C. P. ORDER.—We gather nothing very definite in reference to the late order by the C. P. R. authorities in regard to the shipment of wood from points west of here to this place and Palisade. One complaint, we understand, is that wood which has been shipped to this point has been left on the company's land for days and even weeks, the parties to whom the wood was consigned not receiving it but allowing it to so accumulate that the Company experience a difficulty in finding room to unload their shipments. If such be the case the wood of course will be removed and that order rescinded in a few days. The supposition that the company have a spite against Reno, and seek this means of venting it, is evidently erroneous, as it is not reasonable to presume that they would work diametrically against their own interests. It is further true that shipments are being made.

You may not have another opportunity of seeing the most remarkable musical family ever before the public. Go to-night.

Jottings.

Messrs. Barnett Bros. make an elegant display of goods in the ladies' department. They have just received a large assortment of goods and are now prepared to astonish the natives.

Business in the police court is very quiet.

We are informed that Mr. McGinley and family are on the eve of starting out on a long dramatic tour, and will even go into Arizona. God bless them in their journeying, and angels keep their feet from being dashed vs. boulders.

Louis Dean is becoming quite noted as a veterinarian. Ballot Box is under his care and Earnest, who had his leg cut by Sooner, was to be hauled in a dray to the stable presided over by our Teutonic friend, Louis.

Parole beat Ten Broeck on Wednesday, and if he will come out here Mollie McCarthy will do the same favor for him.

Messrs. Horan & Leary, late proprietors of the Granger House have sold out to Messrs. Doland & Bosworth. Business will go on the same as heretofore.

Alfred Cook was arrested last night by George Hutton and lodged in jail as a vagrant, he being a minor and hanging around saloons after night. This morning Justice R. fined him 12 days or $24. He paid his fine.

It is reported that Col. Dow known to many of our citizens as a journalist, and also not a stranger to legislative honors, has recently sold a mine at Tuscarora for the handsome sum of $80,000. We trust the report is not too good to be true as we shall expect to hear of him wielding the pen he so long was fondly accustomed too.

HOW TO PREVENT SNORING.—The nights are now cold and long and will continue to be so for several months. It is the season for good, nocturnal sleep, but what is more boring to one than to sleep with another who makes a wretched noise all night. His mouth open and a throat not too healthful exposed to the cold night air, while the soft palate, or uvula, keeps a rasping vigil of all is not well. One who breathes through his mouth and nose subjects the uvula, that little tongue-shaped projection from the back part of the palate, to a vibratory motion, i. e., it flaps like a curtain in the wind. In sleep this soft palate is more relaxed than when one is awake, and hence is more readily controlled by the air currents in respiration. In snoring the mouth and nose are both kept open, and the air passing in and out of the lungs moves the little curtain, or uvula, and causes it to rapidly vibrate—hence snoring. If the mouth be closed, the normal condition during sleep, the air current passes along one channel, viz., the nostrils, and thence to and from the lungs. The air presses the soft palate forward and down until it rests against the base of the tongue, and holding it there will of course preclude all snoring. The injurious effects of keeping the mouth open during sleep are partly known to all, we say; yes, we know that the air which we breathe should be warmed by passing through the air chambers of the nostrils; also that bronchial and catarrhal complaints are facilitated by inhalation through the mouth. But how shall we prevent it unless we tie up our lower jaw during the hours of slumber? You have the idea—that lower jaw must be kept in place. We present one device, that of a noted physician, you can model from it: Make for your head a close fitting cap, also one of soft material for your chin; connect the two by a piece of elastic webbing, passing just in front of the ears. The connecting webbing of course can easily be adjusted so that the mouth may be kept closed. This apparatus is simple and cheap and may prove of benefit to the snorers who are many, and an effectual preventive of a nuisance to those whose lot it is to sleep in the same building.

DISTRICT COURT.—The case of the State vs. M. Lippman, which was set down for to-day in the District Court, was reset for hearing next Monday the 29th.

The case of Chas. Smith vs. James Mayberry is under trial to-day.

The case of Stuart vs. Mayberry was decided in favor of the plaintiff, and judgment rendered in his behalf for $618 and costs.

All the children are going to see "Wee Little Allie" at the Academy of Music to-night.

Take the children to see the Little McGibeny at the Academy of Music.

The Star Market (Geo. Schaefer's) will hereafter be closed on Sundays. George, very properly, believes in one day of rest.

The V. & T. R. R. Co. are replacing their old iron rails with new steel ones. Sixteen car-loads of the new rails have been sent to Steamboat, while two car-loads are being used in the good work here. The V. & T. R. R. have an excellent road and rolling stock, and the employees being well paid, are very careful, hence, there are fewer accidents on this road, perhaps than on any other in the United States.

Rev. A. Drahn will next Sunday morning at the Congregational Church preach on the subject of Demoninationism.

The McGibeny Family to-night.

Hayward & Mann have comfortable quarters next to the Reno Exchange. They understand the restaurant business. Success to the boys.

We learn that Mr. R. Smith, of Wells & Fargo is quite sick.

Some complaint is made about times being dull. What do you propose to do about it.

menced against you as defendants by James quest; also for board of men (employees of defendants) and horse feed obtained at the special instance and request of defendants from
